Each semester MSU coordinates several Orientation sessions to welcome new students and parents. These sessions are essential to new students—helping them gain information about, and familiarize themselves with, many facets of the University. For each of the summer Orientation sessions, the Orientation Leaders will be responsible for four days and three evenings, which includes a Sunday training session. Fall and spring Orientation session have shorter time commitments. The dates for all sessions are listed further down the page.

We are very proud that the success of our Orientation Program is due in large part to the quality, ability, and dedication of Student Orientation Leaders. Trained in such areas as communication skills, leadership and presentation of factual information, paid Orientation Leaders work closely with new freshmen, transfers, and parents. They also develop a close working relationship with MSU administrators and faculty while assisting with academic advising and the registration process.
