FAIR MSU

Words by Mabel Kinney Hall
Music by Ilse-Mari Lee

Fling wide our colors bright and true,
Sunlight Gold and Ether Blue,
Fit emblem of our college days,
Proudly we our banner raise

Oh, MSU, right loyally
We offer songs of praise to thee
Long may thy power enduring be,
Alma mater, hail to thee.

STAND UP AND CHEER

Words by Edward A. Duddy
Music by Paul P. McNeely

Stand up and cheer,
Cheer long and loud for dear Montana State,
For today we raise
The blue and gold to wave victorious!

Our sturdy band now is fighting
And we are sure to win the fray
We’ve got the vim, we’re here to win,
For this is dear Montana State.
ACADEMIC REGALIA

The academic regalia—consisting of cap, gown and hood—originated in about the twelfth century. It was primarily worn for warmth. Subsequently, the material of the gown and the lining and shape of the hood represented economic and social as well as academic status.

In the United States, the majority of the academic regalia now worn is in accordance with the general provisions of the Intercollegiate Code of 1895. Under this code, bachelors’ gowns are made with pointed sleeves; masters’ gowns are made with long, closed sleeves with an arc near the bottom; doctors’ gowns are made with round, open sleeves. Usually gowns are black, although some American and foreign universities use colors.

Bachelors’ and masters’ gowns are untrimmed. Doctors’ gowns are faced down the front with velvet with three velvet bars across the sleeves. The velvet facing and bars may be black or they may be the color of the field of study. A woman may wear a white collar with a bachelor’s gown.

Hoods are black. The doctor’s hood is four feet in length; the master’s three and one-half feet. Hoods are lined with the official colors of the university. The velvet borders of the hoods, which are three and five inches wide for the masters’ and doctors’ degrees respectively, identify the fields of study to which the degrees pertain.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States. It is an essential part of the academic dress and is to be retained on the head throughout all academic exercises except during prayer. In particular, the cap is not to be removed at any point in the conferment of a degree.

A long tassel is fastened to the middle top point of the cap and lies as it will thereon. Students graduating with highest honors wear a gold tassel on their caps. A blue tassel identifies those graduating with honors.

Students from Montana State University who have served a period of active duty in the U.S. Armed Forces are wearing a red, white, and blue honor cord during Commencement ceremonies in recognition of their service to our country.

For all academic purposes, the colors associated with the different subjects are as follows:

- Agriculture, Maize
- Architecture, Blue Lilac
- Arts and Letters, White
- Business, Sapphire Blue
- Dentistry, Lilac
- Economics, Copper
- Education, Light Blue
- Engineering, Orange
- Fine Arts, Brown
- Forestry, Russet
- Humanities, Crimson
- Library Science, Lemon
- Medicine, Green
- Music, Pink
- Nursing, Apricot
- Oratory, Silver Gray
- Pharmacy, Olive Green
- Philosophy, Dark Blue
- Physical Education, Sage Green
- Public Health, Salmon Pink
- Science, Golden Yellow
- Theology, Scarlet

Martin Goldsmith is known for bringing classical music to a worldwide audience and for advocating an appreciation of music in everyday life. For a decade until 1999, he hosted NPR’s premiere classical music program, “Performance Today.” Subsequently, he has hosted Sirius/XM Radio’s Symphony Hall channel, where he continues to bring music to life by exploring its historical and cultural context. He is currently the director of Sirius/XM Radio’s classical music programming. Goldsmith is also an accomplished author whose books explore the history of his Jewish family and the relevance of those stories to contemporary life.

Born in St. Louis, Missouri, Goldsmith earned a bachelor’s degree at Johns Hopkins University and embarked on a career in radio, joining “Performance Today” in 1987. He has sung in operas, written musical reviews for The Washington Post and narrated performances of the National Symphony Orchestra. He has received prestigious awards including Yale’s Cultural Leadership Citation and the George Foster Peabody Award. He plays the French horn.

Goldsmith’s books include “The Beatles Come to America” and “The Inextinguishable Symphony: A True Story of Music and Love in Nazi Germany,” which recounts the importance of music to his parents and other Jews in Germany during the ever-tightening repression of the Nazi regime. His latest book, “Alex’s Wake: A Voyage of Betrayal and a Journey of Remembrance,” traces the ill-fated journey of his Jewish grandfather and uncle as they fled Nazi Germany, only to be eventually murdered at the concentration camp at Auschwitz. Goldsmith’s books have made him well-known in Montana’s Jewish community.

Goldsmith has spent much time in Montana and last year he established full-time residence in the state.
As an adjunct faculty member at Montana State University in the late 1970s and early 1980s, Bill Pullman breathed life into the theater program and left a lasting, positive impact on its students.

“He was like a breath of fresh air, and many students sought him out,” said Gordon Carpenter, one of Pullman’s former students. “He was, as I know he still is, insightful, encouraging, extremely intelligent, creative and full of boundless energy.”

Pullman joined Montana Shakespeare in the Parks in 1977 as a touring actor. In 1978, he acted and served as a director with the company, a position he continued through the 1983 season. In part because of the love he developed for Montana through Shakespeare in the Parks, Pullman joined the MSU College of Arts and Architecture as an adjunct faculty member of theater in 1979. There, he quickly rose through the ranks to become co-chair of the theater program.

Pullman left MSU in 1981 to pursue an acting career on Broadway in New York City. He later moved to Los Angeles, where he made his film debut in “Ruthless People” in 1986, followed by a lead role in “Space Balls.” Since then, Pullman has starred in 64 films, including “Sleepless in Seattle,” “While You Were Sleeping,” “Malice,” “Independence Day,” “Bottle Shock,” “The Battle of the Sexes” and “Walking Out.” He also played the title role in “The Ballad of Lefty Brown,” filmed entirely in Montana, for which he received the Excellence in Acting award at the Woodstock Film Festival. Pullman’s acting career has also included 30 major stage productions as well as several TV series such as HBO’s “Too Big to Fail” and USA’s “The Sinner,” a role for which he won a 2018 Critics Choice Awards best actor nomination.

Pullman and his family now own a cattle ranch near Whitehall, where he helps with local community conservation campaigns and continues to support local arts groups, including Montana Shakespeare in the Parks. He has also returned to MSU to serve as a guest lecturer.

As land-grant institutions, Montana State University and the state’s seven tribal colleges have a unique history and mission.

Land-grant universities such as MSU came into being under the federal Morrill Acts of 1862 and 1890. Over the years, land-grant status implied several types of federal support. The first Morrill Act provided grants in the form of federal lands to each state for the establishment of a public institution to fulfill the provisions of the act.

During the first half of the 19th century, the structure of colleges and universities were greatly influenced by European universities, which had educated many of America’s leading professors. But these European universities were organized to serve a society which was not democratic. University education was for the male leisure classes, government leaders, and members of the clergy, legal and medical professions.

At first, American institutions, functioning in somewhat the same fashion, offered chiefly the classical and professional curricula. Although the importance of science was gaining recognition, scientific education was not widely available. But by the middle of the 19th century, the general and scientific press were making widespread demands for more agricultural and technical education. Agricultural societies in many states insisted that colleges be available where students could study agriculture.

Passage of the first Morrill Act in 1862 reflected this growing demand for agricultural and technical education. While a number of institutions had begun to expand upon the traditional classical curriculum, higher education was still widely unavailable to many agricultural and industrial workers. The Morrill Act was intended to provide a broad segment of the population with a practical education that had direct relevance to their daily lives. It also provided for military training, an important consideration to President Abraham Lincoln, who signed the act in the midst of the Civil War.

Justin Smith Morrill, a representative and later a senator from Vermont, sponsored the land-grant legislation that bears his name and is generally credited as having secured its passage. Prior to Morrill’s support for land-grant legislation, Jonathan Baldwin Turner, a Yale-educated farmer, newspaper editor and college professor, made education for the working class his cause in the mid-19th century. His “Plan for a State University for the Industrial Classes” advanced ideas that are now fundamental to the land-grant system, such as experimental research in agriculture.

An important federal addition to the land-grant mission was the agricultural experiment station program created by the Hatch Act of 1887. Today, the Montana Agricultural Experiment Station operates under MSU with the majority of its programs in Bozeman. Seven MAES centers across the state conduct research relevant to the challenges of Montana’s agricultural and natural resource communities.

In 1914, the Smith-Lever Act created a Cooperative Extension Service associated with each U.S. land-grant institution to assist with educational outreach efforts throughout the states. MSU Extension serves all of Montana’s 56 counties and five of the state’s Native American reservations, providing an enormous range of services in areas that include: agricultural and natural resources, consumer education, nutrition and healthy lifestyles, community resource development and youth development programs for tens of thousands of Montana children through 4-H.

Since their establishment, land-grant colleges and universities have grown to represent a unique system of widely accessible higher education. There is now at least one land-grant institution in every state and territory of the United States, as well as the District of Columbia.

Today, America’s land-grant universities continue to fulfill their democratic mandate for openness, accessibility and service to the people. Many of these institutions have joined the ranks of the nation’s most distinguished public research universities. Through the land-grant university heritage, millions of students are able to study every academic discipline and explore fields of inquiry far beyond the scope envisioned in the original land-grant mission.
