Welcome to online learning at Montana State University!

Montana State University is known for its world-class faculty, its hands-on, active learning environment and its welcoming “Mountains & Minds” attitude.

You’ll find that same quality and atmosphere in MSU’s distance programs, along with flexibility and support that allows you to succeed as an online student no matter where you are in your career path.

A pioneer in distance learning, MSU houses one of the oldest and most established networks of online graduate science courses, The National Teachers Enhancement Network (NTEN), which has been operating continuously since 1993.

Each year, MSU adds new and different online undergraduate and graduate courses, professional development opportunities, and graduate certificate and degree programs.

This guide will help you understand what it’s like to be a distance student and get you started on the path to earning your degree or certificate online.

We hope your educational journey will bring you to Montana State Online!

NOTE: While many academic tips and student resources are the same for both distance and campus-based students, this guide is intended to serve students who are taking online courses from a non-campus location.
Is online learning right for you?

Online learning requires different strengths than classroom learning. Some of the benefits are the ability to access your course materials at your convenience (at any time, from any place) and to have time to think and reflect before participating in class discussions. However, online learning also requires self-discipline, a comfort level with technology and the capacity to communicate through writing without ever meeting your instructor or peers face to face.

Complete this quick quiz to decide if online learning is right for you.

If you answered mainly YESs, you are ready to become an online student!

If you answered four or more NOs, online learning may work for you, but you will have to reflect on what you need to do to become a successful online learner.

Online learning requires commitment, self-discipline, some technical savvy, the ability to learn from lengthy reading material and the ability to engage in lively online discussions.
SHANNA STANLEY of Conrad, Montana, completed her bachelor’s degree online. She is the mother of a young daughter and works full time as a Certified Nursing Assistant.

“I am a single mother and I work and wanted to go to school full time,” said Stanley. “I couldn’t go to Bozeman for school, so the online program seemed to fit best for my hectic life.”

“Liberal Studies, and specifically the online program, gave me the flexibility I needed to be able to finish my bachelor’s degree. Not only that, the Liberal Studies program gave me a well-rounded education that focused on different cultures, different languages, politics, law, business, art, sociology, etc. All of these things contribute to me being a more educated person in real world issues. This program has given me an increased appreciation for the beauty and art of my country as well as the beauty and art of other cultures. I have also learned to view and analyze the world from a sociological perspective, which makes life much more interesting. If you add on what I have learned about politics, law, and business, I believe I have gained a very valuable and well-rounded education from the Liberal Studies program.”

“The advice I would give is to make a plan from the beginning and to stick with that plan. In a program like Liberal Studies where you are not tied down to specific classes, it is important to have an idea of what you need to accomplish from the very beginning. Specifically, start working on upper division credits right away. If you wait until the end to get all of your upper division credits, it is much harder to find classes that fit your needs.”

Stanley, a straight-A student, was nominated by MSU for a non-traditional student award given by the University Professional and Continuing Education Association.

What is it like to take an online class?

Online classes can be an exciting challenge for students. You and your instructor may never meet face-to-face but will communicate regularly through email, online discussions or video tools like Skype.

Plan to check your email regularly (daily, if possible). This is the primary means of communication between online instructors and distance students.

Some instructors set online office hours when they are “live” and available. Communicate immediately with the instructor when you know you are having a problem.

You’ll spend a lot of time reading and writing, and quizzes will be given in an online format. Exams may require proctoring.

MSU online courses are self-scheduled, but not self-paced. You will be required to keep up with the class and meet deadlines.

You may take part in group assignments or discussions. Get to know other students, as they may be a useful resource for you.

Quotes from current distance students:

“Set aside the time you need for studies the same way you would for attending a class in person.”

“Each person and each class were valuable to me. The wonderful professors make this online program successful. They expect no less from their online students and I think that they give even more of themselves to the online students to ensure our success.”
How many classes should I take?

How many classes you should take in a given semester depends on several different factors: Are you working full or part-time? What are your family or community obligations? Do you have any travel plans this semester?

Montana State University uses the following formula for determining the number of hours of work needed for college level courses:

1 credit* = 45 hours of work per semester.

* (Undergraduate or Graduate)

Thus, a 3 credit course = 135 hours of work per semester.

A typical fall or spring semester is about 15 weeks, so when you divide 135 hours by 15 weeks, it works out to approximately nine hours of work per class, per week (for a 3-credit course). Keep in mind, some courses may require more work, and some may take less. Some graduate classes also run over a shorter time frame and require more hours per week.

Twelve (12) credits in a semester is considered full time for undergraduate students. For a traditional-aged, campus-based college student who does not work or have children, taking 12 or more credits in a semester is fairly common. This load of courses works out to roughly 36-45 hours a week, which, for someone who isn’t working or doesn’t have too many other obligations, isn’t too much to handle. School is their full time job.

Please carefully consider how much time you will have to devote to your studies before signing up for classes. Montana State Online classes are not self-paced. You will be required to keep up with the class. Even though taking classes online adds additional flexibility for those who can’t attend campus-based courses, the amount of work in an online class is the same as a campus-based class (and sometimes more).
CARLA RICKERT, a grandmother and biologist from South Dakota, started as a Montana State Online student when she was nearly 60. Less than two years later, Rickert, who said she was the first of seven kids in her family to earn a bachelor’s or a master’s degree, graduated from MSU with her master’s degree in Land Resources and Environmental Sciences. She made the long trip to participate in the commencement ceremony.

Like many online students who return to school after an absence, Rickert said completing her graduate degree was a personal goal, but family circumstances had previously prevented it. “Being a member of the ‘sandwich generation’ (taking care of an elderly mother in Iowa, spending time with an adult daughter in Florida and expecting our first grandchild in Bozeman), I did not see how it would be possible to finish and still fulfill obligations and desired family time,” she said. Rickert said she applied to the LRES online master’s program the day she discovered it. “It seemed like an opportunity made especially for my crazy schedule at this time in my life.”

Rickert said that at first she was very nervous about taking classes online—especially in a scientific field that she had not previously studied. “I had an enormous learning curve for about a month,” she said. “Then, after that short adjustment period, I settled in and loved the online format for the remainder of my graduate studies.”

“There are many obvious positive aspects of taking online courses (besides learning so much more),” she said. “I could respond to posts at 3 am in my pajamas if that is the only time I had that day. I never had to miss class due to illness and I could take my coursework everywhere I needed to be. It is possible to form study groups and make classmate friends online.”

Rickert said she also appreciated distance learning because it allowed her to meet and learn from many different people. “It was amazing to meet so many new friends/classmates from all across the USA and one was even living in Japan,” she said. “The vast array of diverse experiences from across the country enhanced our learning experiences in many ways, such as being able to experience ecosystems and environmental issues where students lived vs. learning solely about Montana.”

Rickert is planning to continue her education and earn her PhD.

How much will it cost?

Tuition, fees and costs

Costs depend on whether you are an undergraduate or graduate, whether you are a Montana resident or out of state resident, and how many credits you take. See montana.edu/online/cost for the latest tuition and fees information.

Some of the fees you may encounter as an online student include:

- Application fee
- Transfer student fee (one-time fee charged to new Transfer students)
- ID card fee (this can be waived if you are a distance student)
- Registration fee (one-time, non-refundable per semester fee)
- College fees
- Lab fees
- Textbooks and materials
- Distributed learning fee and other applicable fees

Student Health Insurance is automatically charged to students who register for 6 or more credits in a given semester. Rates depend on your age. However, the Student Health Insurance can be waived if you are covered by another insurance plan. For more info see montana.edu/health.

Financial aid

Many students will use some form of financial aid to pay for their college education. This includes scholarships, grants, loans and other types of tuition waivers.

The best information on how to apply for and use financial aid to pay for your education can be found through the MSU Office of Financial Aid’s website: montana.edu/wwwfa or by calling (406) 994-2845.

To be eligible for financial aid, students:

- Must be a US citizen or eligible non-citizen
- Must have a high school diploma or recognized equivalency
- Must be enrolled in an eligible degree or certificate program
- Must be enrolled at least half time (6 semester credits)
- Must be in good standing with any previous federal aid programs
- Must maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress

NOTE: Requirements will vary with private loans and non-federal sources of aid.

Tuition payment plan

The tuition payment plan is an installment loan available for qualified applicants. Contact MSU Student Accounts for more information:

- studentaccounts@montana.edu
- (406) 994-1991
- montana.edu/ubs/studentaccounts/defpay.html
Getting started:

The application process differs depending on:

- whether you are an undergraduate or graduate student, and,
- whether you are returning to MSU or are a new student.

Undergraduate students

Undergraduates who are new to MSU (transferring from somewhere else) go through the MSU Office of Admissions. You can apply online at msuadmissions.org/transfer.

Undergraduates who are returning to MSU fill out an “MSU-Bozeman Online Intent to Register” form. You can access this form online by logging into the My Info system and going to the “Student Services” tab. When you fill out this form, you will need to list any schools you have attended since leaving MSU and have your official transcripts sent to the Registrar’s office. montana.edu/registrar

Continuing undergraduate MSU students who are entering a new online program fill out a “Change of Curriculum” card available from the Registrar’s office. montana.edu/registrar

Graduate students

All graduate students use the online Graduate School application system. montana.edu/gradschool/admissions/apply.html

You will be asked to provide application materials, including official transcripts, and provide the name and email of your recommenders.

International students

International students contact the Office of International Programs for more information on how to apply.

TIPS FOR Online Student Success

Getting started in an online program can seem daunting at first. Here are some tips for getting the most out of your online program:

Work environment

Set up a quiet place in your home where you can study undisturbed. Your computer, room lighting, broadband connection, even your chair—all are key to creating an environment optimized for studying and learning.

Time and scheduling

Be aware that the flexibility of the online environment can be challenging for students who are prone to procrastination. Don’t be fooled by its flexibility! Courses are not self-paced. You will be required to keep up with the class and meet deadlines. Be aware of your dates and deadlines when you start the class; most classes have weekly assignments and discussions.

Find a time management system that works for you. Choose a calendar or time management system that is reliable and easy to update. Make a note of all due dates and set reminders.

Print syllabi and course calendars and keep them in a highly visible place so you can refer to them often.

Set aside time each day to devote to your online class the same way you would for attending a class in person. Make sure you set aside sufficient time each day to study. Think of it as an appointment you can’t miss!

The online learning environment

Log into your online courses as often as you can—at least five times a week—and every day if you can. You don’t want to miss out on important updates or discussions that happen in your classes.

Check your email often (daily, if possible) and make sure MSU has your correct, preferred email address.

Be clear in your communications. Whether it is an email or discussion posting, remember that in online courses, the non-verbal cues that are so important in face-to-face communication are nonexistent. Consider composing emails, discussion posts or responses in a word processing document (e.g., Microsoft Word) first, then copying and pasting into the email... or course discussion area. This can give you time to think about what you want to say and how best to say it, and allows you to check for grammar and spelling errors.

Consider that once you post something in an online class, you may not be able to remove it. Think carefully about what you want to say in your post before you submit it.

Ask questions if you are not sure about something. Use the interactive tools available to you (such as the Discussion Board, Pages and Email) to ask your instructors and fellow classmates questions. Keep in mind that what you ask on a Discussion Board can be seen by others in your class, so if you need to ask a question in private, use email.

Keep in mind “Netiquette.”
Netiquette is pretty much as it sounds: social guidelines and rules that dictate interaction in online environments.
For example, TYPING IN ALL CAPS IS CONSIDERED SHOUTING.

It’s pretty basic: Don’t say things that you wouldn’t normally say to someone in a face-to-face environment. It can be easy to say anything in an environment that feels anonymous, but keep in mind that you are interacting with real people in your online courses. Be careful with sarcasm and humor; it often doesn’t translate in an online environment. Remember, too, that even though you are not in a classroom, you are still expected to abide by the MSU Student Conduct Code (see p. 13).

Keep your class syllabus and read it!
The class syllabus is the road map that typically lists all course readings, assignments and deadlines. You can refer to it throughout the course to make sure you are on track.

Online learning can sometimes feel isolating. Be involved and interactive.
Taking part in class discussions and communicating with your instructors and your advisor can help you feel more connected.

Technology
Technology can sometimes fail us.
Connectivity fails. Computers crash.
Have a backup plan and keep copies of your work on a cloud or backup device. MSU’s Help Desk phone number is
(406) 994-1777.

Advising
Find out who your advisor is. Make an appointment and establish a positive relationship. Prepare for your advising appointment by having your transcripts close by and researching the classes offered as part of your program.

Personal life Minimize social distractions. Consider turning off your phone and logging off social networks during study time.

Turn to classmates, a friend or your family for support. If you’re stuck on an assignment or facing writer’s block on a research paper, email or use tools in the online Learning Management System software (Brightspace by D2L) to reach out to a fellow classmate. Talk to your family before you start your degree about the importance of pursuing your degree and how they can support you.

Reward yourself and have fun! Just the fact that you are taking online classes is a tremendous accomplishment.
Reward yourself along the way.
Student Services

Services available to all MSU students

MYINFO - MSU’s secure student information portal, allows access to personal information such as transcripts, class schedules, grades, financial aid packages, and pay stubs. You may access MyInfo from anywhere and at any time, even if you are no longer a student at MSU.

montana.edu/myinfo/

BRIGHTSPACE BY D2L - MSU online classes are delivered using this Online Learning Management System (many campus-based courses use it, as well). A brief, self-paced course introduces you to Brightspace and its tools. For help, contact the support team.

Becoming an Online Student Checklist

☐ Tell your family, friends, co-workers or anyone who is part of your support network that you are determined to further your education. Stating this commitment out loud is the first step toward your educational journey!

☐ Research the program or programs that interest you. Find out:
   – what degree or certificate will you earn?
   – how many credits is the program?
   – how much will it cost?
   – what are the prerequisites for the program and courses?
   – how many classes do you need to take?
   – will any existing coursework transfer in?
   – how do you apply?
   – what are the admission dates?

☐ Apply for admission or submit an Intent to Register form if you are a returning MSU student.

☐ Set up an advisor appointment.

☐ Prepare for your advising appointment by getting your transcripts together and researching what classes you need to take.

☐ Meet with your advisor and get your advisor PIN.

☐ Start organizing your time, physical space and life commitments.

☐ Submit immunization records. All students, whether online or on-campus, must submit these. For more information, call (406) 994-2311 or visit montana.edu/health

☐ Find out when class registration opens: montana.edu/registrar

☐ Apply for financial aid:
   Email finaid@montana.edu or call (406) 994-2845

☐ Log into MyInfo: montana.edu/myinfo

☐ Register for classes. using your advisor (alternate) PIN.

☐ Confirm (pay) your bill.
