New for Spring 2019! Open to all majors!
LS 411: Sustainability & Human Values
Sustainable Cities and Urban Development

As environmental degradation and urban sprawl continue to affect our cities, our communities, and our health, it is ever more important that responsible citizens be knowledgeable about the intersections of urban development and nature. This class will situate the student as an agent of change, and will culminate in creating a policy proposal that addresses economic and environmental health in our own community.

Instructor: Dr. Sarah Coletta-Flynn
MWF 9:00-9:50
Questions? Contact Sarah at: sarah.colettaflynn@montana.edu
Want to register? Use CRN # 35221