

Check-up for Student Organizations

Is your student organization a healthy one?

Give yourself a point for every statement you feel your club does well.

Topic	Points
<ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Shares its mission and goals with the campus community and potential members.2. Provides a caring environment where members are welcomed and integrated into the group immediately and creates a sense of belonging.3. Offers opportunities for mentorship/coaching from experienced members and/or advisors.4. Each participant (member or leader) has a role/responsibility in the club.5. Encourages leadership development for all leaders/members.6. Embraces and celebrates diversity and inclusion by providing a welcoming atmosphere for all individuals.7. Has a student organization faculty or staff advisor that is supportive and engaged in the groups' activities.8. Encourages active participation in other organizations.9. Recognizes members and leaders for their contributions to the club.10. Allows members to develop transferable skills that will enhance their resume and career goals.11. Produces opportunities for all members to create lasting personal and professional relationships.

14. Fosters the advancement of its members into leadership roles. 15. Educates and follows through on any financial commitments or other expectations of members related to membership in the organization. 16. Inspires a healthy balance of activities, programs and social events for its members. 17. Is transparent about leadership position appointments/processes (elections, application, appointment, etc.). 18. Uses positive approaches and practices to resolve internal and external conflict. 19. Encourages and demonstrates respect for a variety of world views. 20. Transitions leadership positions seamlessly from year to year. Transfer of knowledge/position responsibilities from one leader to the next is encouraged and done well.
Total	/20