The term "digital assets" refers to personal information that is stored electronically on either a computer or an online "cloud" server account that belongs to an individual. Anyone who uses e-mail, has a password protected cell phone, makes online purchases, or pays bills online has digital assets.

Digital assets generally require a username and/or password or PIN to access and can be difficult or impossible to retrieve if someone is incapacitated or dies. Some digital assets have a monetary value while others have sentimental value. Either way, they are often very important to the people who created them.

Use this worksheet to record your digital assets by category. Then keep it in a safe place and share it with your agent under a power of attorney, personal representative, and other trusted people who would need to have this information if you should become incapacitated or when you die.

Note that certain accounts allow you own may have a two-factor authorization. You need to have a record about which accounts those are and how to access the second factor (e.g., authentication app on phone, text or emailed code, security key, etc.). Other accounts may have security questions, such as "What is the name of your first pet?" or "In what city did you meet your spouse/significant other." A note needs to be made about those questions and your answers.
