

Veterans on Campus

The Post-9/11 GI Bill is changing higher education just as the original GI Bill did after WWII in the late 1940s. Many of today's veterans who never dreamed of attending college now have the resource to do so. MSU has seen the numbers of veterans increase every semester since August 2009—and this trend is likely to continue.

This workshop will address the unique needs veterans may experience on campus. Come join us for lunch and a roundtable discussion, including such topics as:

- Financial issues • Credit overload • Reluctance to ask for help •
- Relating to peers in classrooms • Frustration with class content •

The wealth of experience some veterans can bring to the educational environment will also be explored.
