

Planning for the Passing of Reservation Lands to Future Generations

March 2009

FACT SHEET #6

Your undivided interest of 5% or more: What happens if you pass away without writing a will?

If you pass away without writing a will, any trust or restricted land you own* is inherited by your heirs under a new federal law called the American Indian Probate Reform Act of 2004 (AIPRA).

State laws no longer determine how trust lands on reservations pass from one generation to the next for individuals who pass away on or after June 20, 2006.

AIPRA has created a uniform probate code for all reservations across the United States.* This act applies to all individually owned trust and restricted lands* unless a tribe has its own probate code. All tribal probate codes pertaining to trust property must be approved by the Secretary of Interior. The Fort Hall, Fort Peck, Fort Belknap and Blackfeet tribes do not have approved probate codes enacted as of the publication date of this fact sheet.

Percentage of undivided interest

AIPRA passes trust land to your heirs under different rules depending on whether you own an undivided interest of 5% or more in an allotment (this Fact Sheet #6) or whether you own an undivided interest of less than 5% in an allotment (See Fact Sheet #7). To determine your ownership interest you will need to examine your Individual Trust Interest (ITI) report from the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA). Review Fact Sheet #4 to learn how to obtain your Individual Trust Interest (ITI) report and how to read it.

This fact sheet explains how AIPRA will divide your interests among your heirs if you own an undivided interest of 5% or more in an allotment and if you pass away without writing a will.

Marital status and children

Your marital status and whether you have children will have an effect on the division of your undivided interest of 5% or more among your heirs.

First, find a situation that is similar to yours in the descriptions on pages 2 and 3. Then, refer to the appropriate illustrations on pages 4 – 17 for information about the distribution of your interests to your beneficiaries.

* Except Alaska, the Five Civilized Tribes, and Osage.

What is your marital and child status? Check one.

- Single-No Children
- Single-With Children (legally adopted or biological)
- Married-No Children
- Married-With Children (legally adopted or biological)

The term single means that you are legally divorced (not just separated), or that your spouse has passed away, or that you have never been married.

- If you checked Single-*no children see questions 1 – 4 (this page).
- If you checked Single-*with children see questions 5 – 9 (this page).

The term married includes couples who are legally married, who are separated, or who have a legal separation. Separated couples are still legally married. Common law marriages are not recognized under AIPRA or by Montana and Idaho tribes.

- If you checked Married-*no children see question 10, page 3.
- If you checked Married-*with children see question 11, page 3.

SINGLE-No children, no will

Question 1: Are you single and do not have any living children, grandchildren, or great-grandchildren, but one or both your parents are living?

- Yes (See pages 4 - 5, Illustrations 1a, 1b, 1c, and 1d)
- No (Go to question 2)

Question 2: Are you single and do not have any living children, grandchildren, or great-grandchildren, your parents are not living, and all your brothers and sisters are living?

- Yes (See page 5, Illustration 2)
- No (Go to question 3)

Question 3: Are you single and do not have any living children, grandchildren, or great-grandchildren, your parents are not living, and you have one or more brothers or sisters who have passed away?

- Yes (See page 6, Illustrations 3a & 3b)
- No (If you are single without children, grandchildren or great-grandchildren review questions 1 - 2. If no, go to question 4.)

Question 4: If you are single and do not have any living children, grandchildren, or great-grandchildren, parents, brothers or sisters, your undivided interest of 5% or more in an allotment passes to the tribe where the allotment is located (if you pass away without writing a will) (See page 7, Illustration 4).

SINGLE-With children, no will

Question 5: Are you single and all of your children are living, but you do not have any grandchildren?

- Yes (See page 8, Illustration 5)
- No (Go to question 6)

Question 6: Are you single and all your children are living and you also have living grandchildren?

- Yes (See page 8, Illustration 6)
- No (Go to question 7)

Question 7: Are you single with one or more children who have passed away and they are survived by living children (your grandchildren)?

- Yes (See pages 9 – 12, Illustrations 7, 7a, 7b, and 7c)
- No (Go to question 8)

Question 8: Are you single and all of your children have passed away and they are survived by living children (your grandchildren)?

- Yes (See pages 13 - 14, Illustrations 8a & 8b)
- No (If you are single with children, review questions 5 - 8. If no, go to question 9)

Question 9: If you do not have any surviving children, grandchildren, parents, brothers or sisters, your undivided interest of 5% or more in an allotment passes to the tribe where the allotment is located (if you pass away without a written will) (See page 15, Illustration 9).

Write a will

If you are single and want your undivided interest in trust property to pass to individuals other than those described in questions 1 - 9, you need to write a will to distribute your land the way you desire.

Married-No children or grandchildren, no will

Question 10: Are you married with your spouse living and you have no living children or grandchildren?

- Yes (See page 16, Illustration 10)
 No (Go to question 11)

Married-With children, no will

Question 11: Are you married with your spouse living, and you have living children, grandchildren, and/or great-grandchildren?

- Yes (See page 17, Illustration 11)

As long as your spouse is living he or she inherits all of your undivided interest in trust land of 5% or more as a life estate. Your children inherit a remainder interest in your estate. They are called remaindermen (See fact sheet #8). Your children have full ownership of your undivided interest in trust land after the passing of your spouse.

- No (If you are married without children review question 10)

Fee

Under the technical amendments of December 2, 2008 IRA tribes have been given the authority to enact resolutions, codes, or laws to permit owners the ability to write a will and leave trust property to a non-Indian person and have the land converted from trust status to fee status. Without tribal action AIPRA prohibits the leaving of IRA lands in fee to a non-Indian. Non-IRA tribes already had this authority.

Thus if you are married and if you have an undivided interest, the interest can pass to your non-Indian spouse in fee if you make a written will and if the tribe has enacted a resolution allowing for such a transfer. However, the land will lose its trust status.

Write a will

If you are married and want your undivided interest in trust property to pass to individuals other than those were described in illustrations 10 and 11, then you need to write a will to distribute your land the way you desire.
