The Montana Made program aims to cultivate and support the development of Montana’s local food system. In line with the mission of the university, the program is dedicated to developing our local economy, upholding the stewardship of our great state, engaging with our community and promoting the health of our patrons. The program provides both outreach and resources to Montana growers, producers and manufactures while using the purchasing power of US to provide an institutional marketplace that promotes our local foods community. We believe that through responsible, local sourcing we are sharing our commitment to building a sustainable food system that ensures the availability, safety and quality of foods available now and for the future.
Dining on campus
University Food Services

In addition to the three dining halls located on campus, University Food Service offers retail options for your eating convenience. We look forward to serving you while on campus.
